

Florence Boupda Ngueda is a passionate investment professional who has dedicated the past 15 years to finding and supporting investment opportunities in emerging markets. In her current role as Manager, New Business, Financial Institutions Group (FIG) covering West & Central Africa at the International Finance Corporation (IFC), Florence oversees delivery of an investment program worth several hundred million dollars covering more than 20 countries including some of the most challenging and fragile markets. She manages a multi-country team serving several dozen clients.

Florence was previously Principal Investment Officer and Hub Leader for FIG covering West & Central Francophone & Lusophone Africa. She joined the Africa FIG team in 2009 based successively in Johannesburg, Douala (2012-2014), Abidjan (2014-2019) and Dakar, where she has been since August last year. Florence started her career at IFC in 2005 in Washington DC covering clients all over the globe. Before joining IFC, she worked in Investment Banking for 4 years of which two at Credit Suisse First Boston (CSFB) in New York City.

A native of Cameroon, Florence holds a Master's Degree in General Management from HEC Paris (1999) and an MBA from Harvard Business School (2005). She enjoys outdoor activities, spending time with family & friends and traveling. She sits on the Africa Advisory Board (AAB) of the Harvard Business School.